Thursday 19 November 2020—Volume 31

From the Headmaster's Desk

Dear Parents

The boys in our school are all individuals, with their own strengths, weaknesses, talents, shortcomings, joys, sadness and ambitions. We, as staff, have a great responsibility to ensure that we provide your sons with all the tools they need to be successful during their time at Northwood, so that they all have the opportunity to flourish, improve if need be and can excel in the areas where they have been blessed with specific talents.

It is with the above in mind that I want to take a moment this morning to honour and celebrate those boys that serve and operate in the background. Seeing our first aid boys proudly receiving their new uniforms I am filled with gratitude towards the staff and boys who sacrifice so much of themselves to improve the lives of others.

Within our First Aid Team, our Tech Team Boys and Photography Club we have numerous boys who spend hours in the service of others – often without the fanfare that many of our sport and cultural stars receive. These boys certainly deserve to be celebrated as they are such a big part of our school. These young men will all be successful in life, because to them doing good is more important than the rewards and accolades. They get what it means to be servant leaders and are constantly having a positive impact on those around them.

These young men are indeed significant in their own right and when they ring the bell under the unity arch they will be able to look back and for them the words of Madiba will indeed ring true:

"What counts in life is not the mere fact that we have lived; it is what difference we have made to the lives of others that will determine the significance of the life we lead."

I salute and honour these young men today – thank you for your service gentlemen.

Thought for the Week

"I don't know why people are so keen to put the details of their private life in public; they forget that invisibility is a superpower."

~ Banksy
